Announcement

WE have secured the sole agency for Semi-ready Tailoring—the highest type of modern tailoring; and we ask our customers to come and view the garments made in the conservative and cultured styles men admire. The Semi-ready corporation has won for itself a world-wide reputation. Its progress has been wonderful. By their physique type system they tailor Men's Clothes to fit men of any physique type—Normal, Tall, Short in Height, Short-Stout, Tall-Stout or Slim—it matters not whether or not you cannot be fitted in ready-mades, you can surely be correctly fitted by the Semi-ready system.

LEADERS in the making of Men's Clothes—the Semi-ready Company have attained their position by adhering truly to high quality of fabrics, to good workmanship, and to fair, standard prices for work that is worthy. Every garment sold is guaranteed with the price, and warranted to give satisfactory service.

SEMI-READY Clothes have many imitators, but no competitors. The inside work on a Semi-ready coat gives it a distinction in style, and the wearer will find that in the day-to-day service this style and shape holds good and true. The values are good and the Clothes are cheap in the true sense of the word.

Howard Case and Harry Withers of Lethbridge arrived in Didsbury overland in their Metz Plan Roadster Friday Sept. 10th. After spending Saturday in town they started on their return journey of 250 miles to Lethbridge on Monday. This trip was made to demonstrate the capabilities of this little car for which Howard Case & Co. are Alberta agents. Anyone interested in a small runabout should see Mr. J. C. Riner, who has the local agency.

You should use concrete building blocks for that foundation under your house. See Milton Moyer at Shantz & Co's lumber yard.

Will Hold Sports

An enthusiastic meeting of some of the business men in the town was held on Friday evening last in the sample room of the Golden West Hotel for the purpose of talking over and arranging for sports on Fair day Oct. 7. Mr. G. B. Sexsmith was elected chairman and G. M. Gaddes, secretary.

A committee composed of Messrs. Ballard, Gaddes, Lang and Conrad was formed to draw up a schedule of events and to interview the business men, and to report at another general meeting to be held on Tuesday night.

Another meeting was held on Tuesday night and a report from the committee appointed last week was received. The report stated that the committee had received splendid encouragement from the business men and from the Town Council in regard to the track. A schedule of the sports was drawn up and will consist of a tug-of-war, football match, bucking contest, horse races, foot races, running and jumping races, rooster races, dog races, goat races, etc. The enthusiasm of the meetings that have been held and the willingness of all who have been approached for financial assistance insure a successful issue to sports day, October 7th.

Mr. G. M. Gaddes was unanimously chosen by the meeting to undertake the arduous duties of secretary-treasurer, after which the meeting adjourned.

Mr. J. P. Conrad of the Golden West hotel has donated another cup to the town to be competed for in the football games. This makes two cups Mr. Conrad has donated, the other being for the tug-of-war.

Notice to Didsbury Farmers

As there has been considerable trouble and annoyance caused by the Farmers' cattle straying into the town, a resolution has been placed upon the town minutes requiring all farmers tributary to the town to send or have a description of their brands with the Town Clerk. Such list of brands shall be kept on file in his office for reference, and any stock straying within the town limits, the owner of such stock shall immediately be notified and given a chance to recover same with little or no expense, merely those, if any, attached to giving such notice. Much trouble has arisen through heads of stock among the town folks and thus being incumbered, and the impending loss, etc., on such stock seem quite exorbitant to the farmer, whereas if Clerk had name of owner of brand, could notify such parties.

Therefore, any person refusing or neglecting to give such description of brand, or to remove stock from town upon being thus notified, the town can only resort to impounding for the infringement of town by-law.

J. M. REED,
Town Clerk.

The Fall Fair

Each week our annual fall fair, Oct. 6 and 7, looms more largely on the horizon.

What is the aim and object of an annual fair? It is to promote and encourage the cultivation of the best and most productive cereals, comprising wheat, oats, barley, etc., also of general farm produce, and in addition the raising of good standards of horses, cattle and poultry.

An aim of this kind cannot help but be a laudable one, and the Agricultural Society, therefore, deserves the fullest measure of support from every farmer in the district. Apart from its educational value, a fair brings us into touch with the outside world and gives us a certain amount of desirable publicity.

There are those who could give valuable help by sending in high class exhibits, but who refrain from doing so because they regard it as too much trouble. If life teaches us anything it surely teaches us that the element of sacrifice enters into all its departments. Would it not be worth while to suffer a little inconvenience if the larger interests of the community were to be served thereby? It is true that all exhibitors cannot be prize winners, but the unsuccessful help just as much as the successful in making a good competitive list.

Since last year's fair we have had strangers come within our gates whom we gladly welcome and whose cooperation we heartily invite.

If there are those desirous of obtaining information they can have it by applying to the secretary of the Agricultural Society or any of the other officials.

Can't we make this a record year in exhibits?

Let each one do his duty and the fair of 1910 will reach high water mark.

Must Register Brands

The Council met on Monday night at the Council chamber. The meeting was the latest that has been held for some time, the members not rising until after twelve o'clock. The reasons were the lengthy discussion of the cattle impounding trouble, and the Secretary arriving on the scene a little late.

Mayor Atkins, Councillors Osmond, St. Clair, Gould, Moyer, Hunsperger, Geo. Reed and Solicitor Patterson were present.

On Thursday last, twenty-four head of cattle had been impounded, as they were at the time, and had been previously, causing trouble to interviewers. These cattle had been impounded four days, and it was impossible to find the owner, the brand not being in the brand book and the regular notice being posted six hours after the cattle were impounded and no one claiming them.

Eventually Mr. D. Dippel saw the notice and found they were his cattle and took them out on Monday morning, the charges amounting to $40, which Mr. Dippel paid.

Mr. Dippel was present at the meeting and said he thought the town was to blame in not having a register with all brands recorded of cattle belonging to farmers in the immediate district, so that the owners could be found at once. He stated that it was not a question of getting his money back as it was of principle and the loss in shrinkage in his cattle. He was in the habit of letting the cattle graze on the roads and open prairie, but if he had been notified that they were in town and bothering the residents, he would have come at once and taken them away.

The Mayor thought that a register should be provided although the Council were not compelled to have one.

CHAPTER XX.

THE CHARITY BALL.

They were not long in finding out what had happened to Saunders. After luncheon, while Browne and the three ladies were completing the preparations for the entertainment, Miss Pelham appeared before Deppingham and Chase in the former's headquarters. She had asked for an interview and was accompanied by Mr. Britt.

"Mr. Saunders has deceived me," she announced steadily. "I leave it to you if his attentions have not been most pronounced. Of course, if I wanted to, I could show you a transcript of everything he has said to me in the last couple of months. He didn't know it, but I managed to get most everything down in shorthand. I did it at the risk, too, your lordship, of being considered cold and unbecomingly sly by him. It's most difficult to take conversation without the free use of your hands, I must say. But I've preferred in my own mind to write every promise he made and—"

"I'm afraid it won't be good evidence," volunteered her lawyer, "but I will have to be substantiated, my dear."

"Please don't call me 'my dear,' Mr. Britt. Never you mind about not being good evidence. Thomas Saunders don't enjoy hearing it read in court just the same. What I want to ask of you, Lord Deppingham, is a friend to give Mr. Britt your deposition regarding Mr. Saunders' attitude toward me to the best of your knowledge and belief. I'll take it verbatim and put it into typewriting free of charge. I don't see anything to laugh at, Mr. Chase," she cried, flushing painfully.

"My dear girl," he said, controlling himself. "I think you are misjudging the magnitude of a lover's quarrel. Don't you think it is rather a new time to talk breach of promise with the guns of an enemy round to take a pop at us at any moment?"

"It's no worse than that," replied Mr. Chase, "she said severely, 'Charity begins at home, gentlemen, and I'm here to look out for myself. No one else will let me tell you that I want to get the deposition of every person in the chateau. They can be sworn to before Mr. Bowles, who is a magistrate, I'm told. He can marry people and—'"

"By Jove!" exclaimed Deppingham suddenly. "Can he 'pon my soul!"

"His manner changed as some one that bored little Miss Pelham to the chateau. I don't like the way she makes eyes at him, and I told him this morning down in the storehouse. My, but he flew up! He said he'd—"

"—if he'd marry me," she began to utter her handkerchief vigorously. The men smiled as they looked away.

"I intend to see him for breach of promise," she said thickly.

"As if he was as all that?" asked Deppingham condescendingly.

"What do you mean by 'bad as all that'?" He kissed me time and again, but that's all."

"I'll send for Saunders," said Deppingham sternly.

"Not while I'm here," she exclaimed. "Just as you like, Mr. Pelham. I'll send for you after we've talked it over with Saunders. We can't afford a scandal in the chateau, don't you know?"

"No, I should think not," she said pointedly. Then she looked at Chase and winked, with a meaning nod at the unobtrusive Deppingham. Chase followed her into the hall.

"None of that, Miss Pelham," he said severely.

Saunders came in a few minutes later, nervous and uncomfortable.

"You sent for me, my lord," he said weakly.

"Sit down, Saunders. Your knees seem to be troubling you. Miss Pelham is going to see you for breach of promise."

"Good Lord!"

"What have you promised her?"

"That I wouldn't marry her; that's all, sir," Saunders answered. "She's got no right to presume, sir. Gentleman always indulge in little affairs—flirtations, I might say, sir. It's most common. Of course I thought it most undemanding."

"Don't you love her, Saunders?"

"Oh, I say, my lord, that's rather a pointed question. My word, it is—"

There may have been a bit of—er—well, you know—between us, sir, but—thats all, thats quite all, absurdly all, 'pon my soul."

"Saunders," said Britt solemnly, "I am her attorney. Be careful what you say in my presence."

"Britt," said Saunders distinctly, "you are a blooming traitor. You told me yourself that she was used to all that sort of thing and wouldn't mind. Now see what you do! It's all so outrageous." He was half in tears. Then, turning to Deppingham, he went on fiercely: "I won't be bullied by any woman, sir. We got along beautifully until she began to say figurative pots at me because Selina's wife looked at me occasionally. Hating it all, sir, I can't help it if the ladies choose to look at me. Miss Pelham—Miss Pelham—was perfectly sly about it. Good Lord!"

He groaned in recollection. "It was a very trying scene she made, sir. More than ever it made me realize that I can't marry beneath me."

"Saunders," said Lord Deppingham sternly, "she loves you. I don't understand why or how, but she does. Just because you have obtained an exalted social position at Hammersmith Bridge is no reason you should become a snob. I dare say she stands just as well at Brookly bridge as you do at Hammersmith. She's a girl and would adorn to you such as Hammersmith could be proud of. If you want my candid opinion, Saunders, I think you're a snob."

"Do you really, my lord?" quite dumbly.

"I'll prove it to you by every means in my power. Miss Pelham shall good enough for any one of us. I'd be proud to have her as my wife. I lived at Hammersmith Bridge."

"You must, my lord, and I would adorn to you such as Hammersmith could be proud of. If you want my candid opinion, Saunders, I think you're a snob."

"Oh, she could marry like a fish in the sea," he said indifferently. "I know of a crazy about her—good looking chaps too. The sarcasm escaped Saunders, who was fidgeting uneasily.

"Of course, you know, the breaking of the engagement—I should say the row—wasn't of my doing," he submitted, pulling at his finger joints nervously.

"I'm afraid it can't be patched up either," said Britt dolefully.

"There has simply got to be a wedding in the end or the world would hate us. So far you have been our prize young lord. You are the undisputed king of the social circle."

"Saunders, we can't have our only romance marred by a breach of promise suit," said his lordship resolutely.

gered for so greedily—where of her! She greeted him with a new, brighter light in her eyes. A quiver of delight in her breast came over her.

He saw and felt the welcome in her manner. The blood surged to his head. He mumbled his request. Then, for the first time, he was clasped in the arms, touching her waist, drawing her gently toward his heart. Once as they swept around the almost empty ballroom she looked up at him with his eyes. Neither had spoken. His lips parted suddenly, and his fingers closed down upon hers. She saw the danger light in his eyes and knew the unuttered words that struggled to his lips and stopped there. She never knew why he did it, but she involuntarily shook her head before she lowered her eyes.

He knew what she meant. His heart turned cold again, and the distance widened once more to the old proportions.

He left her with Bobby Browne and went out upon the cool, starlit balcony. There he gently cursed himself for a fool, a dolt, an idiot.

The shouts of laughter and the clapping of hands on the inside did not draw him from his unhappy reverie. He did not know until afterward that the official announcement of the engagement of Miss Minnie Pelham and Thomas Saunders was made by Bobby Browne and the health of the couple drunk in a sea of champagne.

Chase's bitter reflections were at last disturbed by a sound that came sharply to his attention. The noise came from directly below where he stood.

He crept over the stairs and into the terrace was barely ten feet below him. A mass of bushes fringed the base of the wall, dark, thick, fragrant. He saw a dark figure, a shadow shot out from the shadows and slunk off to night, followed by another and another and yet others, seren in all.

The following editorial is taken from the Calgary Optimist. It is characteristic of the expressions of The Optimist on the lines of aid for the West and agricultural interests. The Optimist, although a young paper, has made a reputation for straightforward, plain speech in behalf of the interests upon which, more than all other, the prosperity of the West depends—the powerful journal, and in the solution of political and economic problems is coming to be a factor of no uncertain influence:

THE time is approaching when negotiations between Canada and the United States will be heading toward reciprocity. It may be a great day for Canada if the negotiations succeed. It may not be so great a day for Eastern Canada, which hopes to manufacture untold millions for the West, but the Western man who expects to buy the goods, can see nothing but cheaper agricultural implements as a benefit of reciprocity, reduced tariff, free trade, or whatever it is that results from the negotiations. The duty on machinery runs from 18 per cent. upward. For many classes of machinery it is as high as 33 per cent. Take an engine outfit for which you have to pay $4,000, practically one-third of the amount is tariff, paid supposedly on behalf of the Eastern manufacturer to "protect" his business. By what law of God or man can such a hold-up of one end of the country for the benefit of the other be recalled? Canada never was anything until the Western wheat fields began to bloom. Although of the same age as the United States, its total population was not equal to the one city of New York. But then the wheat was discovered and an era of growth and expansion began. Thousands by thousands the farmers flocked into the West and Canada came to be recognized as the greatest daughter of the Empire. Canada's greatness is in the West. That West is the source of the grain that is agricultural. Under the existing system, regardless of whether the manufactured articles comes from Eastern Canada or the States, its price is increased by from 20 to 35 per cent. on account of the tariff. When you come to figure the grand totals, this condition means that every year of the years to come Alberta will pay for the "protection" of Eastern manufacturers enough to build a pork packing plant, or within a few years, to own the elevators. Of course this is good business for Eastern Canada, but it is at the expense of the West, and the benefits resulting in the way of the West are negligible.

What Alberta wants today and for years to come, is cheap manufactured goods and more people. Reciprocity will bring them. Reduced tariff or no tariff, the farmer who wants to get his goods to market, or who gets the population you can depend upon it that we will get the factories, tariff or no tariff. And, tariff or no tariff, we will not get the factories, tariff or no tariff. The population of the West will be for the mill in all Canada will never provide an adequate home market for the wheat that even Alberta can grow.

Family Cured of Eczema By Cuticura Remedies

"The Cuticura treatment has absolutely cured me and my family of eczema which I, my wife and two-year-old child had for eight months. It started with small pimples on the head of my child which gradually broke out in sores, and it was not long before I and my wife got the same. Our heads were one mass of sores, we could not sleep and the itching was terrible. We suffered for eight months. We tried different kinds of ointments and medicine but it did us no good and seemed to break out on our bodies until a friend who had the same trouble told me about Cuticura of which I used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Remedies, and I was surprised. After the first few days our heads began to heal and in two months we were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."

(Signed) EUGENE PETERSON, 581 Ralph St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Remember evidence that this could be given of the success and economy of the Cuticura Remedies in the treatment of various disfiguring humors of the face and scalp, of infants, children and adults, were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."

Thanksgiving Day October 31st

Ottawa, Sept. 15 -- An order in council has been passed making Monday, October 31st Thanksgiving day.

Conservation of National Resources

The general public is confronted at every turn with some indication of popular feeling toward the advantages to be derived not only in the immediate future but in generations to come, by the careful guarding of the natural wealth which nature has spread so lavishly over the world. Governments are spending large sums of money to insure mineral and timber resources for the future.

A little problem in arithmetic might throw considerable light on the value of the work of dealing with prospective criminals during the days of childhood.

The average working man has an earning capacity of $600 per year. He gives to the world 20 years of service which means that he accumulates in a lifetime the sum of $12,000. The man of a little higher grade with a little more education is worth at least $1000 a year to the state. His term of working capacity is 25 years, which means that he adds $25,000 to the assets of the world in his lifetime. It is estimated that it costs $10,000 to convict and take care of an habitual criminal in a life of 20 years of crime. This means that the state has lost the value of the man's labor to the extent of $25,000.

The habitual criminal is a man whose mental make-up is capable, as a rule, of taking a fair standing in matters requiring education. The state not only loses his producing capacity but invests $10,000 to prevent him doing harm to and destroying the property of all harmless individuals.

The cost of saving a child to citizenship in many cases does not exceed $5 or $10. This includes the locating of the child in a foster home and his removal from the conditions of cruelty or neglect wherein he would grow up to be a criminal or an individual with a non-producing capacity. Children in foster homes are so placed that they must of a necessity follow the example which is set in that environment.

The money saving to the state is apparent to anyone who gives the matter a moment's thought. A great deal of credit is given to the man who evolves a system or scheme whereby $10,000 worth of mineral or lumber resources are saved for the state. The children of the nation are as a rule looked upon as a commodity without commercial value, and the tendency is to leave them in conditions of neglect and abuse until such time as they have reached the place where they have become so saturated in crime and delinquency that it is impossible to rescue them, or until such time as they have reached an earning capacity, when they are overworked and propelled to the place of rebellion and revolt.

A child placed in normal home conditions will, as a rule, find example and precedent guiding it naturally and without force into the channels of life which are bound to result in its becoming a normal citizen with normal views of life and its requirements.

The Children's Aid Society is conserving the wealth of the nation in guarding the interests of the child and is building up hundreds of thousands of dollars of producing capacity for which it deserves unlimited credit and your hearty support. The Superintendent of Neglected Children, Edmonton, gives special attention to letters of enquiry from persons desiring to assist.

Eczema Is Not a Blood Disease

For this reason internal treatment fails to cure Success of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Experience with the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment will soon convince anyone that Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood.

A large percentage of the cure brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment are after the patient has become tired of tedious internal treatment with no apparent result. Apply Dr. Chase's Ointment and it is not long until there is relief from the dreadful itching and a beginning of the process of healing up the sores. When you have tested this soothing, healing ointment you will wonder why you ever wasted time with internal treatment for eczema.

Mr. A. D. Macneil, Stormway, Que., writes: "I had itching eczema on my leg for over five years and tried many remedies and several Doctors without benefit. Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me completely."

Mrs. Chase, Gilbert, Haddock, Placencia Bay, Nfld., writes: "I was a sufferer from salt rheum for ten years and was cured by eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. I am heartily thankful for this cure, and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to other sufferers."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is wonderfully soothing and healing. By its antiseptic powers it cleans out the sores, stops the agonizing itching and soon sets up the process of healing which means thorough cure, if the treatment is persisted in.

Why not get the cure started today? If you are a sufferer from eczema or any form of itching skin disease you will thank the day you heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment. 60 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edmonstone, Bates & Co., Toronto, Canada. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Striking Example of Its Cure by The Tonic Treatment.

St. Vitus dance is the commonest form of nerve trouble which afflicts children, because of the great demands made on the body by growth and development, and there is the added danger caused by study. It is when these demands become so great that they impoverish the blood, and the nerves fail to receive their full supply of nourishment, that the nervous debility which leads to St. Vitus dance.

The remarkable success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing St. Vitus dance should lead parents to give their children this great blood-building medicine at the first signs of the approach of the disease. First, listlessness, listlessness, restlessness and irritability are all symptoms which early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them. Mrs. A. Winters, Virden, Man., says: "When my girl was six years old she was attacked with St. Vitus dance, which was followed by St. Vitus dance. Her limbs would jerk and twitch. Her speech became affected, and at last she became so bad that she could scarcely walk, and we hardly dared trust her alone. She was under the care of a doctor, but in spite of this she was steadily growing weaker, and we feared that we would lose her."

"When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the Pale People were sent me, I decided to try them again. After the use of a few boxes, my girl was so much better that we were helping her, and in the course of a few weeks more her power of speech fully returned, and she could walk and go about as well as any child, and she has been well for her health since. When illness comes to any one of our family now, we never call in a doctor, but simply use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they never disappoint us."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. From The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEATH AFTER A SCRATCH.

Morris Quinzan, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought nothing of the injury, but blood poisoning set in and he died.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn, scratches the hand, yet, painless germ-killer and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and inflammation.

As soon as applied to a sore or a cut Zam-Buk stops the pain and smarting. That is why it is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly clean, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound, or burn, or new blood tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, combining qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, scratches, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for poison, and may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell it at a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 50 cents. Harmful imitations should be always refused.

HE PRODUCED MILLIONS.

Alexander Gibson of Marysville, N.B., Father of Many Industries.

The most interesting figure in the industrial life of New Brunswick is Alexander Gibson, who has just attained his nineteenth birthday, and is still able to walk about the streets of the town of Marysville, of which he was the founder.

Many years ago, Mr. Gibson, after having arrived from the position of a young day laborer in a sawmill to that of the owner of a mill, disposed of the latter property and went to the site of the present town of Marysville on the Nashua River. The Nashua was a tributary of the St. John which it enters near Fredericton. There was an abandoned mill on the property when Mr. Gibson began operations. He bought a large area of timber land, cleared the stream and built a large sawmill, which he worked; built a large church and presented it to the Methodist denomination, and, in short, established a thriving town on the site of the old abandoned mill. He also opened a sawmill at Blackville, on the Miramichi, assisted in building a line of railway from Grand Falls to the site of the present town of Grand Falls, and to Cramham in another, and became a railway magnate as well as the lumber king of New Brunswick.

Mr. Gibson himself took no part in public life, but one of his sons was for many years a member of the Parliament of Canada.

In Mr. Gibson's later years he met with a serious accident, and the immense property went into the hands of a company in which he had a large interest. Recently, however, the property of the company, which became involved in legal difficulties, was sold to satisfy the claims of creditors in Canada and England. The cotton mill has already been purchased by the Canadian Colored Cotton Co. Both sawmills and cotton mills continue to be operated, and Marysville is still a thriving town.

Mr. Gibson was a man of great energy and a man who was compelled to earn his own living from his own hands, and who produced a property that is today worth some millions of dollars.

History of the Queen's Own.

The Queen's Own, now at Aldershot, dates back to April, 1860, when an order was issued uniting a rifle company at Berrie, another at Whitby and four in Toronto into one battalion.

Under the name of the Queen's Own, the outside companies were dropped, and the organization became a purely city regiment of ten companies. Its first active service was in 1864; its second, in 1866, when it took part in the battle of Lincolnton in the Niagara Peninsula. Some of its members served in the composite regiment under Col. Wolcott, and in the Red River Expedition of 1870. It also was present, under Col. O'Brien, in the battle of the Red River at Cut Knife Creek. It has also been called upon for active service in connection with several provincial industrial disturbances. Lord Roberts is its honorary colonel, and Gen. O'Brien was once its commanding officer. Many of the past and present officers of the militia have graduated from its ranks.

One of the unique features of the regiment is the fact that every officer, past or present, has risen from the ranks. The highest grade is therefore a potential colonel, and it has often occurred that a private in the ranks in civilian life a higher social status than his captain or other superior officer.

This explains why so many prominent members of the militia saw their first service in this unique corps. It also explains why the regiment is able to take expensive trips abroad without assistance from the Government. One trip to New York, including travel for four days, cost the regiment over ten thousand dollars. The expenses of the present trip to the United States will require seven weeks of the militia's time.

It will be borne mainly by Sir Henry Pellatt himself.

To Explore Labrador.

The unknown regions west of Lake Temiscamie in southwest Labrador are being explored by a party of Middlebury college professors which has just started on its long trip. The party, which is known as the McFarland expedition, consists of Professors Raymond McFarland, Thomas C. Brown and Phelps Nash Sweet. The first stage of the journey by rail via Montreal to Repulse Bay, Lake St. John, in northern Labrador.

There two canoe guides and food supplies for six weeks will be obtained. Entering the canoe the party will proceed northward by the Chomchochee River 225 miles to Lake Mitsassin, thence northeast about 150 miles to Lake Temiscamie.

A full scientific equipment was taken along, and the hitherto unexplored regions will be examined carefully. When this work is completed the return to Lake St. John will be attempted by the Chomchochee River, which is about 500 miles in length from its source to the lake.

New Santa Fe Trail.

A modern highway, 275 miles long, through the "sun-baked country" in western Kansas would not only prove an illuminating object lesson for the entire state, but for all the country as well. The people of western Kansas have started a movement to afford the world just that object lesson in road building. From Newton to the Colorado line it is proposed to construct a continuous boulevard along the Arkansas river and call it "the Santa Fe trail"—Kansas City Times.

the meeting at the time of the discussion and as some of the councillors wished to know what the cost of feeding the cattle had been the Mayor informed Mr. Dippel that the matter would be taken up as soon as the Constable arrived.

Messrs. Ballard and Gaddes were present as delegates from the town committee on sports for Fair Day and wished to know what the Council would do in regard to fixing a track in the park for the different kind of races to be held.

They were informed that it had been decided by the Council some time ago to have the park plowed and put in shape but could not do so on account of scarcity of laborers. After further discussion on both sides, it was moved and seconded by Osmond Good That the Chairman of the Public Works be instructed to have a circular track cleared and made ready for Fair Day, Oct. 7th. Carried unanimously.

The matter of proclaiming a civic holiday on Oct. 7th as the merchants had signified their wish to the sports committee for the same, it was moved and seconded by Osmond Good That a refund of $14 be paid Mr. Dippel for the amount of impounding fee due directly to the town. Carried.

Bylaw No. 77 appointing the constable as pound keeper received its third reading.

The following accounts were then passed by the Council after being OK'd by chairman of committees: Alberta Municipalities Association fee $70 D. Siebert, well drilling, $188.25; H. S. Patterson, $5.05; Pete DeFeir, $1; D. S. Shantz & Co., lumber, $127.62. The Council then adjourned.

An old negro who lives in the country came into town one day and saw an electric fan for the first time in his life. The whirling object at once attracted his attention, and after gazing at it for several minutes with the greatest astonishment and curiosity he turned to the proprietor of the shop and said, "Say, boss, dat suttrenly is a lively squirrel you got in dis yeah cage, but he's shu'ly 'gon' ter bust his heart if he keeps on makin' dem resolutions so fas' sart'n sure!"
